

TWO DRIVERS ARE HELD BY CORONER'S JURY AT INQUEST

One Inquest is Yet To Be Held in Montgomery County in the Case

MAN, WOMAN VICTIMS

Accident Occurred May 30 At Bristol and Jacksonville Roads

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 18—A coroner's jury, Monday evening, held for the grand jury drivers of two cars involved in the deaths of two persons, Fred W. Olsen, 44, of 11 Potter street, Lacey Park, and Arthur E. Hale, 54, of 6341 Rising Sun avenue, Philadelphia. The inquest was held by Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwells Heights. The charge was involuntary manslaughter.

The inquest grew out of the death of Emma Keiser, 53, who was a passenger in Hale's car and died instantly in the two-car crash at Bristol and Jacksonville roads, May 30. Her husband, Marshall Keiser, 55, 1342 Jerome street, Philadelphia, died in the Abington Hospital several days later, but a Montgomery county Coroner's inquest will have to be held in this case.

Officer Henry Pfeiffer, Warminster township policeman, investigated the accident. Two children, Fred Olsen, Jr., 15, and Lois, 10, were riding in their father's car, but were not hurt.

The first defendant, Fred W. Olsen, Lacey Park, to take the witness stand, testified he was driving south on Jacksonville road. "I was on the 'through highway' and know the intersection very well. I slowed my car down from 35 to 33 miles an hour and sounded my horn three times. The next thing I knew there was a grey flash in front of me and after that a blackout. I awoke in the Abington Hospital," Olsen said.

The second defendant, Arthur Hale, who admitted he never saw the "Stop Sign" and did not halt his car while going east on Bristol road, said: "I had slowed my car down to about 15 miles an hour. I didn't see Olsen's car until it was about 150 feet away coming down Jacksonville road when I attempted

Accepts Invitation To Detroit Model Meet

Clarence F. Wells, Bristol Terrace II, has accepted an invitation to participate in Plymouth Motor Corp.'s third international model plane contest at Detroit Aug. 22-29.

The invitation places Wells among the select 500 model builders whose outstanding records in preliminary meets throughout the world brought them bids to the International.

He was invited to the International by a committee composed of D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth Motor Corp.; Dr. Walter A. Good, chairman of the Academy of Model Aeronautics; and Frank P. Sposite, director of the contest. The committee selected Wells from a list of applicants who live in the 48 states.

Contestants qualified for the International which offers $5,750 in U. S. Savings Bonds and 167 trophies, through participation in one of more than 200 state and local model plane contests sponsored by Plymouth dealers. Competition against some of the world's finest model fliers in addition to a program of entertainment awaits Wells in Detroit.

Wells, who is treasurer of the Bristol Aeromodelers, was formerly president of that organization. He will leave on Sunday for the Michigan city.

From George School's farm herd, seven heifers earned six places in the Holstein division competition at the 15th annual Lehigh Valley Co-operative Farmers Show. The herd is managed by Lamartine Hood.

"Molly," the 15-month-old cow that Kay Hood, daughter of the farm manager, trained and groomed, won the cash award at Allentown for first place in the junior yearling group, and other cattle from the herd took second and fourth prizes in that same category.

The George School heifers went on to earn second place in the senior yearling classifications and second and fourth in the get-off contest. There were 16 heifers entered in the Holstein division at Allentown this year.

Last summer, the first time the George School herd competed for area awards, Hood's cattle garnered four cash awards at Allentown and six ribbons in the Black and White Show.

A shower of variety items was tendered a resident of New Hope, Miss Leta Oblinger, by Mrs. Phyllis Hubbard Herring, here, a few evenings ago.

The House opened debate on the Administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign military aid bill after the defeat, by 275 votes to 47, of an indirect attack on the measure.

At the "five per centers" inquiry Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan was described by Senator Karl E. Mundt as a "finagling bargainer and a fumbling bungler."

Secretary of the Interior Krug told the opening session of the United Nations Scientific Conference on the Conservation and Utilization of Resources that the United States planned to offer "substantial help" both in technology and in investment, in developing backward areas of the world. BUCKS CO. HAS BIG BACKLOG OF PEACHES

Heat Results In Quick Ripening; Fruit "Dumped" On The Market

APPLES ARE CHEAP

The back-log of peaches in Bucks County is said to be the greatest in the county's history. The heat, with resultant quick-ripening fruit, has caused the backlog here and in other counties and states, it is explained.

The result is that some growers are "dumping" their product on the market to vary from very low to normal from day to day.

One prominent grower in the county is reported to have dumped close to 1,000 baskets into a quarry last week. In some instances peaches have rotted on the trees.

"It doesn't pay to pick peaches the way things are right now," said one grower in observing the weather.

Edward M. Paxson, of Lumberville, the largest orchardist in Bucks county states that things are "actually tough" in the way of peach growing and marketing right now.

"It certainly does not pay to pick the peaches, and it costs just as much to grow them now as it did in previous years," Paxson said. "The hot weather and last week's rain put a crimp in the peach business. Apples are cheap in my opinion because housewives have refused to pay the higher prices for the fruit, and as a result this fruit is plentiful. The time has arrived when housewives will do without rather than pay too high prices." Continued on Page Five

Martin Affirms Support of Proposed Penna. Bonus

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18—(INS)—U. S. Senator Martin (R., Pa.) today affirmed his "100%" support of Pennsylvania's proposed $500,000,000 bonus for World War II servicemen.

Martin, who had been obliquely accused by Democrats of opposing the bonus, announced his endorsement at Harrisburg through Lawrence Trainor, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

"Senator Martin has authorized the American Legion to announce that he is completely in support of the bonus," Trainor explained. His actual words were "I am 100% behind the bonus and you can quote me on that."

Martin had been the target of a blast by Democratic State Chairman Philip Mathews who charged the Pennsylvania Senator had "pointedly avoided" the bonus issue in an address last week before the Legion's annual state convention at Pittsburgh.

State Adjutant Edward A. Linsky charged that erroneous information on the cost of the bonus is being circulated in an attempt to defeat the proposal at the November 8th election.

"On the basis of figures supplied us by the State Treasurer's office, the per capita cost of the bonus in no case will exceed $2.50 per year," he stated.

Enemies of the bonus are spreading misinformation that the per capita costs will be many times that amount, he said. Many industries are asking their employees to vote against the proposal on the grounds that the cost would be prohibitive, he claimed.

PENNDDEL, Aug. 18—After a brief dinner meeting at the Royal Gardens, Bensalem township, the Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club journeyed to Shibe Park, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, to witness a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Red Sox.

The game was a nip and tuck affair for eight innings. It was a brilliant hurling duel between "Chawin tabacco" Joe Coleman of the A's and the sensational young "Mickey" McDermott of the Red Sox. Boston was out in front with a 4-3 lead when Sam Chapman came up and parked his 15th home-run into the upper left field stands, tying up the game. The A's rallied in the eighth and scored four big runs to make the final score seven to four in their favor.

It was announced at the meeting that on August 23rd, the public affairs committee will be in charge. The program will concern an important topic—"Highway Safety."

PARKING METERS ADD MONTHLY TO BOROUGH COFFERS

Gain of $2484 in First Six Months This Year Over Same Period in '48

HAVE MORE METERS

Only Once in Six Months This Year Did Sum Go Below $1129

Bristol borough coffers jingle louder every month with the pennies and nickles dropped into the parking meters in the business districts.

The old saying "Pennies make dollars" has certainly proved true, and the returns from the meters during the first six months of 1949 show a gain of $2,484.50, or more than 50 per cent.

The increase in receipts is due undoubtedly to the increase in the number of meters located here in the first six months of this year over the first six months of last year. In the interval of time, between July 1, 1948, and July 1, 1949, the parking meter area had been extended up Radcliffe street to Mulberry; on Pond street to the municipal building; and on portions of Bath and Otter streets.

Returns of January through June of 1948 ranged from $643 to $837; while returns for the same months this year range from $903 to $1437.

Residents are pretty well agreed that not only is the parking situation much improved since establishment of one-way traffic on the principal streets, installation of meters, and improvement of the borough parking lot; but also that visitors and residents alike are assured on their very brief stops for a business call of a spot to park the car for the small sum of a penny or two, or for a longer period for a few additional cents. And in the bargain, the borough (or the populace) benefits from the funds thus derived.

Returns from meters for the two six-month periods are as follows: 1948—January, $647.54; February, $643.68; March, $822.10; April, $510.27; May, $780.14; June, $837.13; total, $4,546.86. 1949—January, $1,129.46; February, $903.21; March, $1,163.90; April, $1,238.59; May, $1,437.97; June, $1,169.13; total, $7,033.36.

TO THE DOUBTERS

A citizen is heard occasionally to say that he disbelieves stories of waste in the federal government. The government, according to those adhering to this school of thought, needs every cent of the $42,000,000,000 it is spending annually. Here are some authenticated items for the record:

Two government bureaus drew designs for a reclamation project in Idaho. Their estimates varied by $75,000,000. The Hungry Horse project in Montana finally cost more than 15 times as much as the original estimate. A Middle West project cost three times as much as original estimates.

It costs $51,000 to provide one bed in a government hospital, $15,000 to $20,000 in a non-government hospital. Private insurance company employees process four times as many policies as do government employees. It takes seven months to fire an incompetent government worker.

The government pays 100,000 employees more than $270,000,000 a year to store and issue supplies. Government records fill 18,000,000 square feet of floor space, the equivalent of six Pentagon buildings. The Navy Department's Bureau of Ships is financed by 27 appropriations, some of which have no apparent connection.

The Veterans Administration asked for $1,000,000,000 for "salaries and expenses" with no explanation. The Army requested $529,000,000 for tanks for the National Guard. It was discovered most of the money would go for tools, not tanks, and the tools were already largely available.

These are only samples of what is going on. Elimination of such practices, according to the Hoover Commission, would save the country $3,000,000,000 quickly and much more later. No informed citizen can doubt that there is a distressing amount of waste.

JETS AND HUMINGBIRDS

News stories reveal that the pilot of a British jet plane has established an endurance record by staying aloft for 12 hours. As jet performance goes, this is rather remarkable even though the ship was refueled 10 times in mid-air, and through an ingenious device.

Attached to the nose of the jet was a long tube, and in the fuselage of the motor ship, a Lancaster bomber, was set a funnel arrangement. By means of what was a sensational bit of precision flying, the tube on the jet was gently nuzzled into the funnel on the big bomber. With both planes flying at about 200 miles per hour, the transfer of fuel, in this case a special type of kerosene, was accomplished in a matter of minutes, after which the planes broke away and the jet zoomed off.

The best comparison one can think of is a hovering hummingbird with its elongated beak, milking the blossom of a trumpet vine. But harking to nature doesn't obscure the fact that the British have found a way to lick one of the prime limitations of jet planes.

Help for the Poor Speller

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YESTERDAY we considered some of the elemental items in learning to spell and how we parents might help the child in his early stages of spelling or help him when he has lagged at spelling.

Today we shall consider how the older child who has lagged in spelling might help himself become a better speller, even a good speller. Of course, he must want to succeed in this direction if he is to teach himself well. We might by skillful positive suggestion stimulate him in this wish to spell well. Some wise teachers in the junior high school, on beginning a subject or section of it, provide their students with a list of the important technical words to be used most often in this subject and require these students to learn to spell these words.

Rigid Practice
The student who wishes to improve his spelling will make it a practice of copying correctly those words he has spelled wrong on written papers returned to him, and will set himself at rigid practice of mastering the spelling of these words. One good way for him is to write or print each word boldly on a card, one word to the card, and to attack only a small number of new words at a sitting after having reviewed the words he thinks he already can spell correctly. If he will spend fifteen minutes a day at this practice he will find himself making great improvement in spelling after several months.

Learning to spell these words is just a matter of repeating over and over the letters of each word in their proper sequence, being sure always to connect in the mind this spelling with the pronunciation and meaning of the word. It may help to write or type the word as it is being studied. Let accuracy always be the slogan for spelling.

Written Work
When the student prepares written work outside of class he should not let himself write a word of whose spelling he is not sure, but use a dictionary or ask some one for its spelling, when in doubt. However, a poor speller may have a hard time to find in a dictionary some words he can't spell. In this case, when he is preparing written work at home a parent might be glad to spell words for him. Fortunately the child over seven or eight who, while writing a letter or something for school, knows his father or mother will gladly spell a word for him at any time, even to look it up for him or with him. If a child must call to another room the sympathetic parent will readily call back the correct spelling. Many a time did this happen in our home some years ago.

When such happens there's a wholesome family atmosphere and parent-child companionship. This comradeship over spelling encourages the child to gain a good spelling conscience. Let us remember that, under pressure of work, most children will choose rather to take a chance at the spelling of a doubtful word than to go to the trouble to look it up in the dictionary. This in spite of all our exhortation and sometimes because of it. Every home should have a good dictionary, and if at all possible, a large unabridged edition. It should be put ahead of furniture that is not really essential. By example, parents can cultivate constant use of the dictionary. (My bulletin, "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper).

The Manhattan's normal direct view picture is oversized, at 61 square inches, in comparison with the ordinary 10-inch tube picture of about 52 square inches. The mere pressing of a button, however, increases the actual picture area of the Manhattan to 71 square inches and at the same time more than doubles the size of the images in the center area of the picture.

ESTIMATE COUNTY
POPULATION AT 124,628State Planning Board Makes Public Estimated Population Figures

HAD 107,715 IN 1940

During the past two decades the State Planning Board, Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, has prepared estimates of the State's population for the intercensal years, the latest of which is as of August 1, 1948. The population for Pennsylvania at that time was estimated to be 10,490,482. This figure is substantiated by a recent release of the U. S. Bureau of Census which places the population of the Commonwealth on July 1, 1948 at 10,478,000.

The State Planning Board has also prepared a tabulation showing the estimated population of the State by counties for two-year intervals since the latest official U. S. Census, April 1, 1940. When comparing these estimates, trends in county population are disclosed which could not be apparent from the official census figures issued at ten-year intervals. For example, counties may show an increase in population by April 1, 1950 when the figures for the official U. S. Census are taken, but may have actually lost population for some years during the decade and have afterward regained all of their losses and resumed their former growth. In other instances counties might show an increase in population, but at the present time be losing inhabitants. Many variations of these trends are obvious.

The above observations are important to local officials, planners, and others when considering public works programs, debt amortization, and building developments.

During the decade just past the war caused more happenings to disturb the normal trend of the counties' population than in any corresponding period in history. It is important to note, however, that during the past several years most counties appear to be tending to resume normality.

The State Planning Board estimate for Bucks County's population was on April 1, 1940, 107,715; August 1, 1942, 107,151; August 1, 1944, 112,789; August 1, 1946, 119,268; and August 1, 1948, 124,628.

Olsen has been driving a car for 25 years and Hale has been driving for 28 years and neither operator was ever in an accident prior to this one.

Mrs. Josephine Olsen and Mrs. Madeleine Hale, wives of the defendants, offered no testimony.

Walter Hambrecht, Hathboro, who took pictures of the accident, described the intersection as a dangerous one, saying that the State Highway Department has "rounded out the four corners" in order to cut down the number of crashes.

Two "eye" witnesses, who were in cars following the defendants, failed to appear before the Coroner to testify.

Interest Increases In Science Books, Biographies

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — The annual report from George School library shows a trend toward reading of more biographies and publications dealing with science and social studies. Miss Edith C. Passmore is librarian.

The report, tracing reader interest at the school over the past five years showed new high-interest levels for biography, social studies and science, while readership of religious publications reached a five-year low.

Circulation for the school year 1948-49 reached 11,415 volumes, the report disclosed. That is an average of about 26 books for every student and teacher at George School.

Comparing the circulation of fiction and non-fiction, Miss Passmore's study shows that 53 works of non-fiction were read for every 47 books of fiction.

The total number of volumes in the George School library as of mid-June was 7,981 a gain of 441 over last year. Of the new books acquired in 1948-49, 167 were classified as fiction, 55 as biography.

Major circulation divisions showed biographies getting 22 percent of reader attention, while 29.6 percent of the books circulated last school year were classed as general literature and 16.8 percent dealt with the social studies.

WASHINGTON WEEK

By CHARLES L. EGENROAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 18—"Your going is another evidence of our determination to help our great friend in the Orient in her aspiration to exemplify the democratic way of life."

These were the words of President Truman in a letter to John R. Blandford as the latter accepted the mission to China on January 20, 1946, to set up a budget system for the Republic of China.

They were words and had about as much foundation as those of the late President Roosevelt at Yalta as reported by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in the "Stilwell Papers."

He quoted F. D. R. as follows: "Well, I think they (Russians) consider they've got enough as it is. You can put a 100 million more people into Siberia. Stalin doesn't want any more ground. He's got enough."

Then, James Byrnes, in his book "Speaking Frankly," put the lie to those words in his report on the Chinese discussions at Yalta when he wrote:

"In all, nearly 300,000 square miles of territory have been acquired (by Russia) since 1939, bringing the area of the Soviet Union to 8,455,939 square miles."

Ever since the Yalta sell-out the China problem has been entangled by a continuous flow of weasel words.

The record crawls with them. Again in Mr. Byrnes' book we find the author asserting that President Truman said the United States wanted Dairen as an open port, but that Roosevelt, at Yalta, had insisted China would retain control of Dairen.

Then came the oft-quoted and oft-interpreted China policy as set down by Mr. Truman in a December 15, 1945, statement:

"The Government of the United States believes it essential: (1) That cessation of hostilities be arranged between the armies of the National Government and the Chinese Communists and other dissident Chinese armed forces; (2) That a national conference of representatives of major political elements be arranged to develop an early solution, which will bring about the unification of China. The United States believes that peace, unity and democratic reform in China will be furthered if the basis of this Government is broadened to include other political elements in the country."

On January 7, 1947, General Marshall issued this statement: "It is also to be hoped that during this interim period the door will remain open for Communists or other groups to participate if they see fit to assume their share of responsibility for the future of China."

For two years those statements were openly interpreted as outright requirements in our policy that Communists have a part in the Government of China.

Not until March 11, 1948, at a press conference, did Mr. Truman deny that his administration advocated inclusion of Communists in China's government.

That is just some of the evidence of Mr. Truman's "determination to help our great friend in the Orient in her aspiration to exemplify the democratic way of life."

The climax to this sell-out came the other day when Mr. Truman jammed the door on any further aid to China.

CREWS OF AREA TO SAIL AT ANNAPOLIS

The national championship Duster races will be sailed on August 20 and 21 at Annapolis under sponsorship of the United States Naval Academy. Over 100 crews of this 14-foot class will make the trip from this area. This class has chartered fleets at Bristol, Riverton, Collingswood (Cooper River), Burlington (Lakewood), Brant Beach, and Edgewater Park (Red Dragon).

Admiral William F. Halsey, USN, sponsored a handsome perpetual trophy to be awarded to the champion Duster skipper. The three annual regattas to date have been won by boys from the Riverton Yacht Club where the Duster Class originated. These three winners, John Knight, Fred Steiner, and "Bob" Landstedt, are still actively competing and sharing high point honors this season with Barbara Lippincott, "Marty" Carhart, "Dewey" Showell, and Ralph Hinn. But there are many clever skippers in the other fleets who have a good chance to take the Halsey trophy away from Riverton.

The Interclub DCYRA sanctioned regatta remaining on the calendar is at Red Dragon Canoe Club over the Labor Day week-end.

The following skippers and crews from the Bristol Yacht Club who will be participating in this races are: No. 82 "Joe" Cherubini, "Pat" Loftus; No. 45 "Mel" Locke, Albert Dowden; No. 139, John Cherubini, "Tom" Cherubini; No. 66 John Dodds, "Ken" Anderson; No. 76 Robert Townsend, Jean Townsend; No. 125 Alan Stoneback, Chauncey Stoneback.

Mrs. C. E. Stoneback, Mr. and Mrs. George Colville, and Miss Louise Terry will go to Annapolis to watch the regatta.

SYMPOSIUM PLANNED ON PUBLIC SAFETY

Primary Function of Highway Transportation To Move Traffic Safely

CONFERENCE, SEPT. 22

In the history of highway development, for every case of over-design of facilities there are hundreds of instances of under-design. These latter cases have invariably resulted from a lack of data or knowledge of trends of moving traffic.

The primary function of a highway transportation system is to move traffic safely and expeditiously, and in announcing the Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey Conference on Planning and Economic Development, to be held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of Philadelphia at the Hotel Warwick on September 22, Ralph Kelly, the Chamber's President, says, "Without question, one of the important sessions of any conference dealing with the development of physical facilities and the economic future of the 8-county area, which includes Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties in Pennsylvania, and Burlington, Camden and Gloucester counties in New Jersey, should be a symposium on 'Traffic and Public Safety.' Highway transportation efficiently administered in all its phases, is vitally important to business and society. A successful traffic safety plan is one that not only helps to reduce accidents, but also helps to facilitate the movement of traffic and thereby increase the efficiency of the roadway."

The Chamber points out that the county Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey area is one of the greatest industrial, business, residential, and agricultural districts of the United States, with 340 independent governmental subdivisions related geographically, physically and economically in the development and coordination of many facilities upon which their common welfare depends. "We have been studying various aspects of the area's needs or sometime," said Mr. Kelly, "and are convinced that progress can only be made when there is discussion of developments and an exchange of information between those specializing in the planning field and those in industry and commerce, whose interest and support is an essential part of community development. Accordingly, one of the sessions of this forthcoming conference has been organized under the general direction of the Chamber's Safety Council, whose contacts and research studies extend into the fields of traffic, public safety, fire prevention, and general safety education in every locality throughout the entire area."

In a panel discussion, the conference preliminary program indicates that governmental and other local authorities from the two States and the 8-county area, will discuss the utilization of present and proposed highways towards the safe and expeditious movement of traffic; the elimination of physical hazards and bottlenecks; and the joint enforcement measures which might be undertaken.

Commenting on the program, Gavin W. Laurie, Manager of Automotive Transportation, The Atlantic Refining Company, and Chairman of the Street and Highway Section of the Chamber's Safety

Council, said, "Any misapprehension that Philadelphia itself is trying to dominate the policies of the other units in the area should be quickly dispelled by the fact that the co-chairman of this session will be William J. Deardon, Deputy Director of Law and Public Safety, Division of Motor Vehicles, State of New Jersey, and by the fact that the panel will include experts and local leaders in their various fields from both New Jersey and Pennsylvania."

The program announces that a recent "Origin and Destination Survey" conducted by the Philadelphia City Planning Commission has a definite relation to population trends, area markets, and new highway networks, and date and observations relating to this survey will be presented by Paul F. Croley, Chief of the Land Planning Division. Keyed to this presentation will be one by Robert A. Mitchell, the City's Traffic Engineer and Secretary of the Philadelphia Highway Traffic Board. As President of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, Mitchell is also a nationally known recognized authority in this professional field. Presenting the case for New Jersey will be Arnold H. Vex, Traffic Engineer, Department of Law and Public Safety, State of New Jersey, and more particularly for the immediate area, and especially Camden County, will be S. Herbert Taylor, Camden County Engineer. An outstanding example of coordinated local activity at the county level will be an outline of the organization and operations of the Delaware County Highway Safety Council, a voluntary group of interested county and borough officials and businessmen. Charles Rashold, Lansdowne, Pa., is the President of this group, and is listed as another of the panel participants.

"Too often in such technical discussions as these," continued Mr. Laurie, "the opinions and desires of the motoring public and pedestrians, particularly as they may relate to traffic restrictions or regulations, are outweighed by the enthusiasm of the engineers and political authorities. To overcome any such possibility, our panel will include representatives from both the Keystone Automobile Club and the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, both of whom, through their participation in the activities of the Philadelphia Highway Traffic Board and because of their fostering of the development of local highway traffic and safety organizations in certain of the counties within the area, are a vital force in representing public opinion, and have made a major contribution towards the public appreciation of the 'problems of this motor transportation age.' The conference will embrace ten concurrent morning and afternoon panel sessions, with luncheon intervening, at which the speaker will be a prominent area business leader. It will conclude with a dinner meeting, where both Governors Duff of Pennsylvania and Driscoll of New Jersey will speak."

Bucks Co. Has Big Backlog of Peaches

Not only is the heat ripening the apples and peaches rapidly, another Bucks county orchardist reports, but heat has reduced the market by making it too warm for folks to can fruit. With the market flooded and the sales demand down, prices rise and fall with the temperature.

Price, retail, at present, in this vicinity, varies from $1 to $3 a bushel for peaches, according to the quality. Apples bring about $3 a bushel.

Wholesale prices, Bucks county growers say, are "whatever we can get."

When prices drop to $1 a bushel it no longer is worthwhile harvesting the crop. Thompson Orchards, at Center Point, Montgomery county, reports that when the price is that low, growers do best just to sit on the porch and get rid of their help.

Although another Bucks county grower reported blistering and cracking of peaches, as a result of heat and frequent showers, apples still may be worse than peaches. The extreme heat, the orchard men say, actually will burn the apples on the trees, making them worthless.

At the National Agricultural College orchards, where there is a 10-acre crop of peaches, the ripened fruit is at least two weeks ahead of time.

"I have never seen peaches ripen as early as they have this year," David Purmell, head of the college's fruit growing, said yesterday. "A great many baskets of peaches were picked in July which meant that the Pennsylvania and Jersey crop arrived together."

"Apples are going to be much smaller as a result of the extreme heat, there is not enough moisture in the ground to size up the apples."

A Bucks county grower in another section of the county, said that most of the selling has been of one half peck and peck baskets rather than of the larger baskets for canning.

The market in Western Pennsylvania, another grower pointed out, is not as bad as the Philadelphia outlets.

Not only has the heat affected peaches and apples, but sweet and field corn have also been hit. At present, the market is flooded with sweet corn, ripening early. You can buy corn in Doylestown "almost at your own price," while 10 days ago some folks were paying as high as 60 cents a dozen ears.

The tomato crop is way ahead of previous years, and what the result is going to be remains to be seen.

With the hot weather continuing today and over the weekend, the

CROYDON A. C. WINS FIRST OF 5 GAMES IN YOUTH SERIES

Croydon A. C. won the first of the five-game series to determine the championship of the Bristol Youth League. On the Terrace diamond last evening, the Croydon team scored a one-run triumph over Bristol Terrace, 4-3, in a well-played game.

Croydon outlived the Terrace team, 7-3, and captured the tilt despite a three-run rally in the fifth which enabled Terrace to deadlock the score.

"Jimmy" Morrell was the winning moundsman and his three-hit hurling was outstanding. He had but one bad inning when an error, a walk, a hit batsman and Frank Barbetta's hit gave Terrace its trio of runs. A single by Cochran and double by Graceon White were the only other Terrace hits.

Joe Dominick led the attack on Muth with three singles in four trips to the plate. Morrell also hit the ball for two singles in three trips up while Lane Conn produced a triple.

The second game of the series will be played Sunday afternoon at Croydon.

TRENTON, Aug. 18.—St. Ann's A. and the Trenton Pirates battled to a 4-4 stalemate on Wetzell field last evening in a Trenton Industrial League tilt. The game will be re-played Sunday afternoon on Wetzell field.

Fred Barbetta, of the "Saints," slammed a home run with the bases bare in the second inning. "Rabbit" Palumbo accounted for two runs in the third with a triple.

Wilbur VanLenten did the mound work for St. Ann's with Libenberg and DeGeorge pitching for the Pirates.

The Bristol team is fighting to move into a deadlock for first place while the Pirates need the game to get into the playoffs.

FANINI'S TRIPLE AIDS MANHATTAN TO WIN

"Bill" Conline was the winning hurler with Griff Butler being the loser. Butler was nipped for 10 hits including three by Bud Crohe, while Conline gave the scotch-tape makers but six scattered hits.

The triumph put the soap-makers in a deadlock for third place in the circuit.

TWO DRIVERS ARE HELD BY CORONER'S JURY AT INQUEST

One Inquest is Yet To Be Held in Montgomery County in the Case

MAN, WOMAN VICTIMS

Accident Occurred May 30 At Bristol and Jacksonville Roads

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 18—A coroner's jury, Monday evening, held for the grand jury drivers of two cars involved in the deaths of two persons, Fred W. Olsen, 44, of 11 Potter street, Lacey Park, and Arthur E. Hale, 54, of 6341 Rising Sun avenue, Philadelphia. The inquest was held by Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwells Heights. The charge was involuntary manslaughter.

The inquest grew out of the death of Emma Keiser, 53, who was a passenger in Hale's car and died instantly in the two-car crash at Bristol and Jacksonville roads, May 30. Her husband, Marshall Keiser, 55, 1342 Jerome street, Philadelphia, died in the Abington Hospital several days later, but a Montgomery county Coroner's inquest will have to be held in this case.

Officer Henry Pfeiffer, Warminster township policeman, investigated the accident. Two children, Fred Olsen, Jr., 15, and Lois, 10, were riding in their father's car, but were not hurt.

The first defendant, Fred W. Olsen, Lacey Park, to take the witness stand, testified he was driving south on Jacksonville road. "I was on the 'through highway' and know the intersection very well. I slowed my car down from 35 to 33 miles an hour and sounded my horn three times. The next thing I knew there was a grey flash in front of me and after that a blackout. I awoke in the Abington Hospital," Olsen said.

The second defendant, Arthur Hale, who admitted he never saw the "Stop Sign" and did not halt his car while going east on Bristol road, said: "I had slowed my car down to about 15 miles an hour. I didn't see Olsen's car until it was about 150 feet away coming down Jacksonville road when I attempted to turn right."

Accepts Invitation To Detroit Model Meet

Clarence F. Wells, Bristol Terrace II, has accepted an invitation to participate in Plymouth Motor Corp.'s third international model 'plane contest at Detroit Aug. 22-29.

The invitation places Wells among the select 500 model builders whose outstanding records in preliminary meets throughout the world brought them bids to the International.

He was invited to the International by a committee composed of D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth Motor Corp.; Dr. Walter A. Good, chairman of the Academy of Model Aeronautics; and Frank P. Spisite, director of the contest. The committee selected Wells from a list of applicants who live in the 48 states. Contestants qualified for the International which offers $8,750 in U. S. Savings Bonds and 167 trophies, through participation in one of more than 200 state and local model 'plane contests sponsored by Plymouth dealers. Competition against some of the world's finest model flyers in addition to a program of entertainment awaits Wells in Detroit.

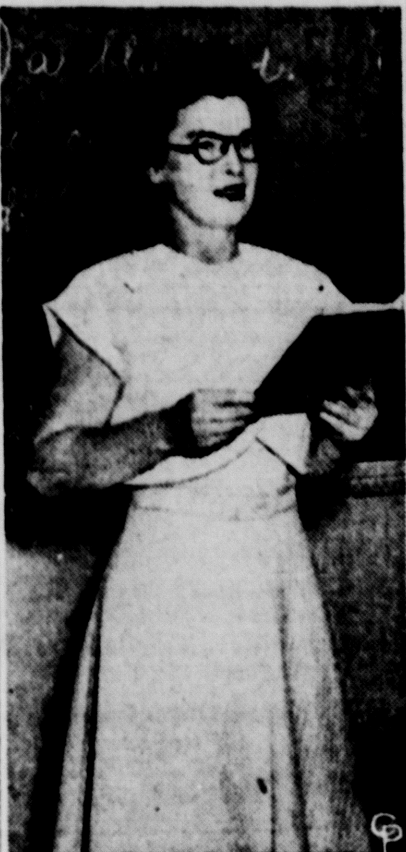

Wells, who is treasurer of the Bristol Aeromodelers, was formerly president of that organization. He will leave on Sunday for the Michigan city.

WHEN Miss Alice Byrnes, 32, Herkimer, N. Y., school teacher, bought four shares of DuPont Company stock, she had no idea that she was sharing in a very special event. Officials of the huge concern were prepared to stage quite a celebration for anyone who chanced to buy the 100,000th share of stock. So Miss Byrnes has been invited to the headquarters at Wilmington, Del., for a big party. (International)

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANNED BY SCRIBES

From George School's farm herd, seven heifers earned six places in the Holstein division competition at the 15th annual Lehigh Valley Co-operative Farmers Show. The herd is managed by Lamartine Hood.

"Molly," the 15-month-old cow that Kay Hood, daughter of the farm manager, trained and groomed, won the cash award at Allentown for first place in the junior yearling group, and other cattle from the herd took second and fourth prizes in that same category.

The George School heifers went on to earn second place in the senior yearling classifications and second and fourth in the get-of-sire contest. There were 16 heifers entered in the Holstein division at Allentown this year.

Last summer, the first time the George School herd competed for area awards, Hood's cattle garnered four cash awards at Allentown and six ribbons in the Black and White Show.

A shower of variety items was tendered a resident of New Hope, Miss Leta Obinger, by Mrs. Phyllis Hubbard Herring, here, a few evenings ago.

These call for the transfer of the Bureau of Employment Security to the Department of Labor, and of the Bureau of Public Roads to the Department of Commerce.

Government agencies that had been operating without authorized funds were assured of operating monies as Congressional leaders won approval in both branches for a resolution authorizing temporary expenditures until September 15th.

The House opened debate on the Administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign military aid bill after the defeat, by 275 votes to 47, of an indirect attack on the measure.

At the "five per centers" inquiry Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan was described by Senator Karl E. Mundt as a "flaming bargainer and a fumbling bungler."

Secretary of the Interior Krug told the opening session of the United Nations Scientific Conference on the Conservation and Utilization of Resources that the United States planned to offer "substantial help," both in technology and in investment, in developing backward areas of the world. BUCKS CO. HAS BIG BACKLOG OF PEACHES

Heat Results In Quick Ripening; Fruit "Dumped" On The Market

APPLES ARE CHEAP

The back-log of peaches in Bucks County is said to be the greatest in the county's history. The heat, with resultant quick-ripening fruit, has caused the backlog here and in other counties and states, it is explained.

The result is that some growers are "dumping" their product on the market to vary from very low to normal from day to day.

One prominent grower in the county is reported to have dumped close to 1,000 baskets into a quarry last week. In some instances peaches have rotted on the trees.

"It doesn't pay to pick peaches the way things are right now," said one grower in observing the weather. Edward M. Paxson, of Lumberville, the largest orchardist in Bucks county states that things are "actually tough" in the way of peach growing and marketing right now.

"It certainly does not pay to pick the peaches, and it costs just as much to grow them now as it did in previous years," Paxson said. The hot weather and last week's rain put a crimp in the peach business.

"Apples are cheap in my opinion because housewives have refused to pay the higher prices for the fruit, and as a result this fruit is plentiful. The time has arrived when housewives will do without rather than pay too high prices." Continued on Page Five

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18—(INS)—U. S. Senator Martin (R., Pa.) today affirmed his "100%" support of Pennsylvania's proposed $500,000,000 bonus for World War II servicemen.

Martin, who had been obliquely accused by Democrats of opposing the bonus, announced his endorsement at Harrisburg through Lawrence Trainor, commander of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

"Senator Martin has authorized the American Legion to announce that he is completely in support of the bonus," Trainor explained. His actual words were "I am 100% behind the bonus and you can quote me on that."

Martin had been the target of a blast by Democratic State Chairman Philip Mathews who charged the Pennsylvania Senator had "pointedly avoided" the bonus issue in an address last week before the Legion's annual state convention at Pittsburgh.

State Adjutant Edward A. Linsky charged that erroneous information on the cost of the bonus is being circulated in an attempt to defeat the proposal at the November 8th election.

"On the basis of figures supplied us by the State Treasurer's office, the per capita cost of the bonus in no case will exceed $2.50 per year," he stated.

Enemies of the bonus are spreading misinformation that the per capita costs will be many times that amount, he said. Many industries are asking their employees to vote against the proposal on the grounds that the cost would be prohibitive, he claimed.

Bristol Blood Donors will conduct a meeting at 7:30 this evening in the municipal building.

Expect To Open New Market in Mid-September

Work on the new food market being built by Safe Food Markets on Bristol Pike, Croydon, has passed the halfway mark, according to a statement made by officials of that organization this morning. "The market will cost $150,000," it is stated.

The steel superstructure and the two-tone red brick walls are about completed, and interior fixtures are scheduled to begin arriving in the next few days. The area for the parking lot, which will provide free parking space for nearly 300 automobiles, is being cleared preparatory to the hard top which will be put down on the lot.

According to the announcement the new food market will be ready to open about the middle of September.

SIX YOUTHS FINED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Group Allegedly Stole Gasoline and Accessories from Cars Here

SPOTTED IN A CAR

Two Bristol youths and four from Croydon were fined $10 each and costs yesterday by Justice of Peace Edward Lynn, on the charge of disorderly conduct. The group, according to the police, have been involved in stealing gasoline and accessories from automobiles here.

Police caught up with the six when Anthony DeFranco, Ninth avenue and Beaver Dam road, along with some friends, left a movie here to find that gasoline had been taken from his car.

DeFranco spotted the six in a car and called the police. Officers McCahan and Morris made the arrests. In addition to gasoline it is reported that the boys took flaps and tire rims from cars, some of which were parked on Monroe street.

Those held for court are identified by police as the following:

Louis Constantini, 18, of Wood street, Anthony Petrolillo, 18, of Lincoln avenue, Bristol; Joseph McGarvey, 19, of State road, Steven J. Archer, 17, David Holstein, 19, of Third avenue, and John Irvine, of Delaware avenue, Croydon.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Attempts to marry off Vice President Barkley are not getting anywhere. . . . We may have to get the fellow who is handling Ingrid Bergman and move the whole thing to Stromboli for results.

But every man should have someone to whom he can tell his troubles, and Alben's got 'em in the Senate.

And he'd be a good catch for any woman. . . . Democratic vice presidents have greater security than any other vice presidents in the country provided they don't start talking like Henry Wallace.

Henry hasn't been talking at all recently. . . . he's busy developing a hybrid chicken to eat his hybrid corn.

His last experiment was with hybrid voters. . . . that didn't do so well.

When Henry sticks to breeding eatin' corn he does remarkably well but he's never had a very good market for his talkin' corn.

KIWANIANS WITNESS A BIG LEAGUE GAME

Lincoln Highway Club Members First Hold A Brief Meeting

PLAN NEXT SESSION

PENNDDEL, Aug. 18 — After a brief dinner meeting at the Royal Gardens, Bensalem township, the Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club journeyed to Shibe Park, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, to witness a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Boston Red Sox.

The game was a nip and tuck affair for eight innings. It was a brilliant hurling duel between "Chawin tabacco" Joe Coleman of the A's and the sensational young "Mickey" McDermott of the Red Sox. Boston was out in front with a 4-3 lead when Sam Chapman came up and parked his 16th home-run into the upper left field stands, tying up the game. The A's rallied in the eighth and scored four big runs to make the final score seven to four in their favor.

It was announced at the meeting that on August 23rd, the public affairs committee will be in charge. The program will concern an important topic — "Highway Safety."

Shirley's father, Walter L. France, announced that his daughter would not make her attempt for another four or five days at least.

'Lonely Hearts' Killers Get Guilty Verdict

New York — A sleepy-eyed jury that deliberated all night today returned verdicts of "guilty in the first degree" against the lonely hearts killers—swarthy Raymond Fernandez, 34, and his 200-pound sweetheart, Mrs. Martha Julia Beck, 29. The verdict—returned in the 44th day of trial—carries with it mandatory sentences of death in the electric chair for both defendants, neither of whom showed the slightest emotion when the verdict was announced. Fernandez and Mrs. Beck were convicted of the Jan. 4th hammer and scarf slaying of Mrs. Janet Fay, 66-year-old Albany, N. Y., widow whom Fernandez had met through lonely hearts correspondence.

TO THE DOUBTERS

A citizen is heard occasionally to say that he disbelieves stories of waste in the federal government. The government, according to those adhering to this school of thought, needs every cent of the $42,000,000,000 it is spending annually. Here are some authenticated items for the record:

Two government bureaus drew designs for a reclamation project in Idaho. Their estimates varied by $75,000,000. The Hungry Horse project in Montana finally cost more than 15 times as much as the original estimate. A Middle West project cost three times as much as original estimates.

It costs $51,000 to provide one bed in a government hospital, $15,000 to $20,000 in a non-government hospital. Private insurance company employees process four times as many policies as do government employees. It takes seven months to fire an incompetent government worker.

The government pays 100,000 employees more than $270,000,000 a year to store and issue supplies. Government records fill 18,000,000 square feet of floor space, the equivalent of six Pentagon buildings. The Navy Department's Bureau of Ships is financed by 27 appropriations, some of which have no apparent connection.

The Veterans Administration asked for $1,000,000,000 for "salaries and expenses" with no explanation. The Army requested $529,000,000 for tanks for the National Guard. It was discovered most of the money would go for tools, not tanks, and the tools were already largely available.

These are only samples of what is going on. Elimination of such practices, according to the Hoover Commission, would save the country $3,000,000,000 quickly and much more later. No informed citizen can doubt that there is a distressing amount of waste.

JETS AND HUMINGBIRDS

News stories reveal that the pilot of a British jet plane has established an endurance record by staying aloft for 12 hours. As jet performance goes, this is rather remarkable even though the ship was refueled 10 times in mid-air, and through an ingenious device.

Attached to the nose of the jet was a long tube, and in the fuselage of the motor ship, a Lancaster bomber, was set a funnel arrangement. By means of what was a sensational bit of precision flying, the tube on the jet was gently nuzzled into the funnel on the big bomber. With both planes flying at about 200 miles per hour, the transfer of fuel, in this case a special type of kerosene, was accomplished in a matter of minutes, after which the planes broke away and the jet zoomed off.

The best comparison one can think of is a hovering hummingbird, with its elongated back, milking the blossom of a trumpet vine. But harking to nature doesn't obscure the fact that the British have found a way to lick one of the prime limitations of jet planes.

Help for the Poor Speller

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YESTERDAY we considered some of the elemental items in learning to spell and how we parents might help the child in his early stages of spelling or help him when he has lagged at spelling.

Today we shall consider how the older child who has lagged in spelling might help himself become a better speller, even a good speller. Of course, he must want to succeed in this direction if he is to teach himself well. We might by skillful positive suggestion stimulate him in this wish to spell well. Some wise teachers in the junior high school, on beginning a subject or section of it, provide their students with a list of the important technical words to be used most often in this subject and require these students to learn to spell these words.

Rigid Practice
The student who wishes to improve his spelling will make it a practice of copying correctly those words he has spelled wrong on written papers returned to him, and will set himself at rigid practice of mastering the spelling of these words. One good way for him is to write or print each word boldly on a card, one word to the card, and to attack only a small number of new words at a sitting after having reviewed the words he thinks he already can spell correctly. If he will spend fifteen minutes a day at this practice he will find himself making great improvement in spelling after several months.

Learning to spell these words is just a matter of repeating over and over the letters of each word in their proper sequence, being sure always to connect in the mind this spelling with the pronunciation and meaning of the word. It may help to write or type the word as it is being studied. Let accuracy always be the slogan for spelling.

Written Work

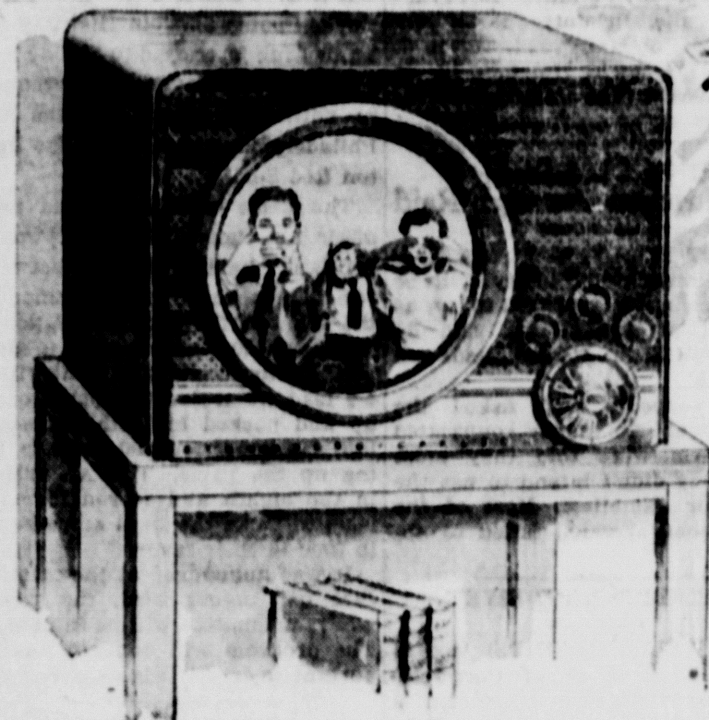

When the student prepares written work outside of class he should not let himself write a word of whose spelling he is not sure, but use a dictionary or ask some one for its spelling, when in doubt. However, a poor speller may have a hard time to find in a dictionary some words he can't spell. In this case, when he is preparing written work at home a parent might be glad to spell words for him. Fortunately the child over seven or eight who, while writing a letter or something for school, knows his father or mother will gladly spell a word for him at any time, even to look it up for him or with him. If a child must call to another room the sympathetic parent will readily call back the correct spelling. Many a time did this happen in our home some years ago.

When such happens there's a wholesome family atmosphere and parent-child companionship. This comradeship over spelling encourages the child to gain a good spelling conscience. Let us remember that, under pressure of work, most children will choose rather to take a chance at the spelling of a doubtful word than to go to the trouble to look it up in the dictionary. This in spite of all our exhortation and sometimes because of it. Every home should have a good dictionary, and if at all possible, a large unabridged edition. It should be put ahead of furniture that is not really essential. By example, parents can cultivate constant use of the dictionary. (My bulletin, "Home Helps for Poor Spellers" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper).

Exclusive Stromberg-Carlson "Opera Glass" tuning brings a new thrill to television viewing. The Manhattan's normal direct view picture is oversized, at 61 square inches, in comparison with the ordinary 10-inch tube picture of about 52 square inches. The mere pressing of a button, however, increases the actual picture area of the Manhattan to 71 square inches and at the same time more than doubles the size of the images in the center area of the picture.

ESTIMATE COUNTY POPULATION AT 124,628

State Planning Board Makes Public Estimated Population Figures

HAD 107,715 IN 1940

During the past two decades the State Planning Board, Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, has prepared estimates of the State's population for the intercensal years, the latest of which is as of August 1, 1948. The population for Pennsylvania at that time was estimated to be 10,490,482. This figure is substantiated by a recent release of the U. S. Bureau of Census which places the population of the Commonwealth on July 1, 1948 at 10,475,000.

The State Planning Board has also prepared a tabulation showing the estimated population of the State by counties for two-year intervals since the latest official U. S. Census, April 1, 1940. When comparing these estimates, trends in county population are disclosed which could not be apparent from the official census figures issued at ten-year intervals. For example, counties may show an increase in population by April 1, 1950 when the figures for the official U. S. Census are taken, but may have actually lost population for some years during the decade and have afterward regained all of their losses and resumed their former growth. In other instances counties might show an increase in population, but at the present time be losing inhabitants. Many variations of these trends are obvious.

The above observations are important to local officials, planners, and others when considering public works programs, debt amortization, and building developments. During the decade just past the war caused more happenings to disturb the normal trend of the counties' population than in any corresponding period in history. It is important to note, however, that during the past several years most counties appear to be tending to resume normality.

The State Planning Board estimate for Bucks County's population was on April 1, 1940, 107,715; August 1, 1942, 107,151; August 1, 1944, 113,789; August 1, 1946, 119,268; and August 1, 1948, 124,628.

Olsen has been driving a car for 25 years and Hale has been driving for 28 years and neither operator was ever in an accident prior to this one.

Mrs. Josephine Olsen and Mrs. Madeleine Hale, wives of the defendants, offered no testimony.

Walter Hambrech, Hathboro, who took pictures of the accident, described the intersection as a dangerous one, saying that the State Highway Department has "rounded off the four corners" in order to cut down the number of crashes.

Two "eye" witnesses, who were in cars following the defendants, failed to appear before the Coroner to testify.

Average Temperature In July Listed At 80.2

Clear days last month totalled 13; partly cloudy, nine; cloudy days, nine; and number on which precipitation measured .01 inch or more, 12.

Interest Increases In Science Books, Biographies

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18 — The annual report from George School library shows a trend toward reading of more biographies and publications dealing with science and social studies. Miss Edith C. Passmore is librarian.

The report, tracing reader interest at the school over the past five years showed new high-interest levels for biography, social studies and science, while readership of religious publications reached a five-year low.

Circulation for the school year 1948-49 reached 11,415 volumes, the report disclosed. That is an average of about 26 books for every student and teacher at George School.

Comparing the circulation of fiction and non-fiction, Miss Passmore's study shows that 53 works of non-fiction were read for every 47 books of fiction.

The total number of volumes in the George School library as of mid-June was 7,981 a gain of 44 over last year. Of the new books acquired in 1948-49, 167 were classified as fiction, 55 as biography.

Major circulation divisions showed biographies getting 22 percent of reader attention, while 29.6 percent of the books circulated last school year were classed as general literature and 16.3 percent dealt with the social studies.

WASHINGTON WEEK

By CHARLES L. EGENROAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 18.—"Your going is another evidence of our determination to help our great friend in the Orient in her aspiration to exemplify the democratic way of life."

These were the words of President Truman in a letter to John B. Blanford as the latter accepted the mission to China on January 30, 1946, to set up a budget system for the Republic of China.

They were words and had about as much foundation as those of the late President Roosevelt at Yalta as reported by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in the "Stillwell Papers."

He quoted P. D. R. as follows:

"Well, I think they (Russia) consider they've got enough as it is. You can put a 100 million more people into Siberia. Stalin doesn't want any more ground. He's got enough."

Then, James Byrnes, in his book "Speaking Frankly," put the lie to those words in his report on the Chinese discussions at Yalta when he wrote:

In all, nearly 300,000 square miles of territory have been acquired (by Russia) since 1939, bringing the area of the Soviet Union to 8,455,939 square miles.

Ever since the Yalta sell-out the China problem has been entangled by a continuous flow of weasel words.

The record crawls with them.

Again in Mr. Byrnes' book we find the author asserting that President Truman said the United States wanted Dairen as an open port, but that Roosevelt, at Yalta, had insisted China would retain control of Dairen.

Then came the oft-quoted and oft-interpreted China policy as set down by Mr. Truman in a December 15, 1945, statement:

"The Government of the United States believes it essential: (1) That a cessation of hostilities be arranged between the armies of the National Government and the Chinese Communists and other dissident Chinese armed forces. (2) That a national conference of representatives of major political elements be arranged to develop an early solution, which will bring about the unification of China. The United States believes that peace, unity and democratic reform in China will be furthered if the basis of this Government is broadened to include other political elements in the country."

On January 7, 1947, General Marshall issued this statement:

"It is also to be hoped that during this interim period the door will remain open for Communists or other groups to participate if they see fit to assume their share of responsibility for the future of China."

For two years those statements were openly interpreted as outright requirements in our policy that Communists have a part in the Government of China.

Not until March 11, 1948, at a press conference, did Mr. Truman deny that his administration advocated inclusion of Communists in China's government.

That is just some of the evidence of Mr. Truman's "determination to help our great friend in the Orient in her aspiration to exemplify the democratic way of life."

The climax to this sell-out came the other day when Mr. Truman slammed the door on any further aid to China.

CREWS OF AKEA TO SAIL AT ANNAPOLIS

The national championship Duster races will be sailed on August 20 and 21 at Annapolis under sponsorship of the United States Naval Academy. Over 100 crews of this 14-foot class will make the trip from this area. This class has chartered fleets at Bristol, Riverton, Collingswood (Cooper River), Burlington (Lakewood), Brant Beach, and Edgewater Park (Red Dragon).

First Admiral William F. Halsey, USN, sponsored a handsome perpetual trophy to be awarded to the champion Duster skipper. The three annual regattas to date have been won by boys from the Riverton Yacht Club where the Duster Class originated. These three winners, John Knight, Fred Steiner, and "Bob" Lundstedt, are still actively competing and sharing high point honors this season with Barbara Lippincott, "Marty" Carhart, "Dewey" Showell, and Ralph Huna. But there are many clever skippers in the other fleets who have a good chance to take the Halsey trophy away from Riverton.

The Interclub DCYRA sanctioned regatta remaining on the calendar is at Red Dragon Canoe Club over the Labor Day week-end.

The following skippers and crews from the Bristol Yacht Club who will be participating in this races are: No. 82 "Joe" Cherubini, "Pat" Loftus; No. 45 "Mel" Locke, Albert Dowden; No. 139, John Cherubini, "Tom" Cherubini; No. 66 John Dodds, "Ken" Anderson; No. 76 Robert Townsend, Jean Townsend; No. 125 Alan Stoneback, Chauncey Stoneback.

Mrs. C. E. Stoneback, Mr. and Mrs. George Colville, and Miss Louise Terry will go to Annapolis to watch the regatta.

SYMPOSIUM PLANNED ON PUBLIC SAFETY

Primary Function of Highway Transportation To Move Traffic Safely

CONFERENCE, SEPT. 22

In the history of highway development, for every case of over-land facilities there are hundreds of instances of under-design. These latter cases have invariably resulted from a lack of data or knowledge of trends of moving traffic.

The primary function of a highway transportation system is to move traffic safely and expeditiously, and in announcing the Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey Conference on Planning and Economic Development, to be held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of Philadelphia at the Hotel Warwick on September 22, Ralph Kelly, the Chamber's President, says, "Without question, one of the important sessions of any conference dealing with the development of physical facilities and the economic future of the 8-county area, which includes Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties in Pennsylvania, and Burlington, Camden and Gloucester counties in New Jersey, should be a symposium on 'Traffic and Public Safety.' Highway transportation efficiently administered in all its phases, is vitally important to business and society. A successful traffic safety plan is one that not only helps to reduce accidents, but also helps to facilitate the movement of traffic and thereby increase the efficiency of the roadway."

The Chamber points out that the county Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey area is one of the greatest industrial, business, residential, and agricultural districts of the United States, with 340 independent governmental subdivisions related geographically, physically and economically in the development and coordination of many facilities upon which their common welfare depends. "We have been studying various aspects of the area's needs for some time," said Mr. Kelly, "and are convinced that progress can only be made when there is discussion of developments and an exchange of information between those specializing in the planning field and those in industry and commerce, whose interest and support is an essential part of community development. Accordingly, one of the sessions of this forthcoming conference has been organized under the general direction of the Chamber's Safety Council, whose contacts and research studies extend into the fields of traffic, public safety, fire prevention, and general safety education in every locality throughout the entire area."

In a panel discussion, the conference preliminary program indicates that governmental and other local authorities from the two States and the 8-county area, will discuss the utilization of present and proposed highways towards the safe and expeditious movement of traffic; the elimination of physical hazards and bottlenecks; and the joint enforcement measures which might be undertaken.

Commenting on the program, Gavin W. Laurie, Manager of Automotive Transportation, The Atlantic Refining Company, and Chairman of the Street and Highway Section of the Chamber's Safety

Council, said, "Any misapprehension that Philadelphia itself is trying to dominate the policies of the other units in the area should be quickly dispelled by the fact that the co-chairman of this session will be William J. Beardon, Deputy Director of Law and Public Safety, Division of Motor Vehicles, State of New Jersey, and by the fact that the panel will include experts and local leaders in their various fields from both New Jersey and Pennsylvania."

The program announces that a recent "Origin and Destination Survey" conducted by the Philadelphia City Planning Commission has a definite relation to population trends, area markets, and new highway networks, and date and observations relating to this survey will be presented by Paul F. Croley, Chief of the Land Planning Division. Keyed to this presentation will be one by Robert A. Mitchell, the City's Traffic Engineer and Secretary of the Philadelphia Highway Traffic Board. As President of the Institute of Traffic Engineers, Mitchell is also a nationally known recognized authority in this professional field. Presenting the case for New Jersey will be Arnold H. Vey, Traffic Engineer, Department of Law and Public Safety, State of New Jersey; and more particularly for the immediate area, and especially Camden County, will be S. Herbert Taylor, Camden County Engineer. An outstanding example of coordinated local activity at the county level will be an outline of the organization and operations of the Delaware County Highway Safety Council, a voluntary group of interested county and borough officials and businessmen. Charles Rasbold, Lansdowne, Pa., is the President of this group, and is listed as another of the panel participants.

"Too often in such technical discussions as these," continued Mr. Laurie, "the opinions and desires of the motoring public and pedestrians, particularly as they may relate to traffic restrictions or regulations, are outweighed by the enthusiasm of the engineers and political authorities. To overcome any such possibility, our panel will include representatives from both the Keystone Automobile Club and the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, both of whom, through their participation in the activities of the Philadelphia Highway Traffic Board and because of their fostering of the development of local highway traffic and safety organizations in certain of the counties within the area, are a vital force in representing public opinion, and have made a major contribution towards the public appreciation of the 'problems of this motor transportation age.' The conference will embrace ten concurrent morning and afternoon panel sessions, with luncheon intervening, at which the speaker will be a prominent area business leader. It will conclude with a dinner meeting, where both Governors Duff of Pennsylvania and Driscoll of New Jersey will speak."

Not only is the heat ripening the apples and peaches rapidly, another Bucks county orchardist reports, but heat has reduced the market by making it too warm for folks to can fruit. With the market flooded and the sales demand down, prices rise and fall with the temperature.

Price, retail, at present, in this vicinity, varies from $1 to $3 a bushel for peaches, according to the quality. Apples bring about $3 a bushel.

Wholesale prices, Bucks county growers say, are "whatever we can get."

When prices drop to $1 a bushel it no longer is worthwhile harvesting the crop. Thompson Orchards, at Center Point, Montgomery county, reports that when the price is that low, growers do best just to sit on the porch and get rid of their help.

Although another Bucks county grower reported blistering and cracking of peaches, as a result of heat and frequent showers, apples still may be worse than peaches. This extreme heat, the orchardmen say, actually will burn the apples on the trees, making them worthless.

At the National Agricultural College orchards, where there is a 10-acre crop of peaches, the ripened fruit is at least two weeks ahead of time.

"I have never seen peaches ripen as early as they have this year," David Furnell, head of the college's fruit growing, said yesterday. "A great many baskets of peaches were picked in July which meant that the Pennsylvania and Jersey crop arrived together."

"Apples are going to be much smaller as a result of the extreme heat, there is not enough moisture in the ground to size up the apples."

A Bucks county grower in another section of the county, said that most of the selling has been of one half peck and peck baskets rather than of the larger baskets for canning.

The market in Western Pennsylvania, another grower pointed out, is not as bad as the Philadelphia outlets.

Not only has the heat affected peaches and apples, but sweet and field corn have also been hit. At present, the market is flooded with sweet corn, ripening early. You can buy corn in Doylestown "almost at your own price," while 10 days ago some folks were paying as high as 60 cents a dozen ears.

The tomato crop is way ahead of previous years, and what the result is going to be remains to be seen.

With the hot weather continuing today and over the weekend, the

* O Lord, whose word is the way, the truth, and the life, open our ears that we might hear Thy call. May that word ever be a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our way. May it abide with its transforming grace in each of our households of faith. Let it be upon our lips in praise and testimony throughout our days. CROYDON A. C. WINS FIRST OF 5 GAMES IN YOUTH SERIES

Croydon A. C. won the first of the five-game series to determine the championship of the Bristol Youth League. On the Terrace diamond last evening, the Croydon team scored a one-run triumph over Bristol Terrace, 4-3, in a well-played game.

Croydon outlived the Terrace team, 7-3, and captured the tilt despite a three-run rally in the fifth which enabled Terrace to deadlock the score.

"Jimmy" Morrell was the winning moundsman and his three-hit hurling was outstanding. He had but one bad inning when an error, a walk, a hit batsman and Frank Barbetta's hit gave Terrace its trio of runs. A single by Cochran and double by Graceon White were the only other Terrace hits.

Joe Dominick led the attack on Muth with three singles in four trips to the plate. Morrell also hit the ball for two singles in three trips up while Lane Conn produced a triple.

The second game of the series will be played Sunday afternoon at Croydon.

ST. ANN'S BATTLES PIRATES TO A TIE; GAME ENDS 4 TO 4

TRENTON, Aug. 18—St. Ann's A. A. and the Trenton Pirates battled to a 4-4 stalemate on Wetzel field last evening in a Trenton Industrial League tilt. The game will be re-played Sunday afternoon on Wetzel field.

Fred Barbetta, of the "Saints," slammed a home run with the bases bare in the second inning. "Rabbit" Palumbo accounted for two runs in the third with a triple.

Wilbur VanLenten did the mound work for St. Ann's with Libenberger and DeGeorge pitching for the Pirates.

The Bristol team is fighting to move into a deadlock for first place while the Pirates need the game to get into the playoffs.

FANINI'S TRIPLE AIDS MANHATTAN TO WIN

"Click" Fanini's triple with the bags loaded in the second inning helped the Manhattan Soap team to beat the 3M's last evening in an Industrial League game on the latter's field. Final score was 6-1.

"Bill" Conline was the winning hurler with Griff Butler being the loser. Butler was nipped for 10 hits including three by Bud Crohe, while Conline gave the scotch-tape makers but six scattered hits.

The triumph put the soap-makers in a deadlock for third place in the circuit.
